

1066 THE MOVIE JULY 2nd 2008

The latest buzz project within the UK film industry is '1066' a feature film currently in development. The word is spreading about the quality of the script and the vision of the production team. With rewrites by historical novelist Helen Hollick and director Robin Jacob the script has become tighter and smarter packing the heavyweight punch of a classic EPIC movie.

Peter Hannan has joined the production as second unit DOP. Peter's credits include The Gathering Storm, Children of Men, Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban, My house in Cumbria and Monty Python's The Meaning of Life.

On the cast front, Martin Klebba has joined to play the part of Tuold, diminutive muse and trusted servant to Duke William (featured in the Bayeux Tapestry). Martin was last seen in Will Smith's Hancock but is best known for his appearances in the Pirates of the Caribbean franchise. His other movies include Van Helsing, The Santa Trap, The Cougar Club and TV series CSI.

Martin will be at the POTC interactive Charity event for Coda Salt Lake City on Saturday August 16th 2008.

Director Robin Jacob recently spent the day at Pinewood Studios at the invitation of Ian Wingrove the '1066' project SFX supervisor. During the day he met production designer Tony Snow who offered well received advice on who to approach to fill the remaining key technical roles. Pinewood is full to the brim with productions. The latest James Bond outing Quantum of Solace is in the final stages of production and is one of 16 movies currently being produced at Pinewood.
