

Susan George Set to Play Queen Emma in Medieval Epic '1066'

Susan George, famous for her powerful portrayal of Dustin Hoffman's young English wife "Amy Sumner" in the classic Sam Peckinpah thriller "Straw Dogs" has been cast in the role of the powerful and ruthless matriarch Queen Emma in the forthcoming medieval epic '1066'.

"We are extremely happy to announce Susan's attachment to "1066" she is a tremendously versatile actress who will bring a wealth of experience to the demanding role of Queen Emma who was the powerful and sometimes ruthless wife of no less than two Kings of England, Aethlred "The Unready" and the conquering Dane King Knut" says Robin Jacob Co Writer and Director "It is very reassuring to know that Queen Emma is in such safe hands"

With an excellent script, a solid cast, and a retinue of 'A' list crew members with dozens of box office block busters to their names already attached, this historically accurate portrayal of the events that lead to the Battle of Hastings between King Harold II and William the Conqueror Duke of Normandy, is the most ambitious independent production ever attempted in the UK.

Another coup for the '1066' production team is the attachment of industry legend Ted Kotcheff Executive Producer of the much acclaimed TV series Law & Order: Special Victims Unit. As an award winning Director, Kotcheff took the helm of a string of hits including Rambo-First Blood with Sylvester Stallone the Gene Hackman action drama Uncommon Valour and the cult comedy Weekend at Bernie's. He takes on the role of producer.

With preliminary casting underway for the remaining 90+ speaking parts the question on everyone's lips is:

Who will take on the role of William Duke of Normandy?
